DETAILED ACTION

Receipt of information disclosure statement filed 1-10-03, request for extension of time (granted) and amendment filed 3-17-03 is acknowledged. Claims 1-8 and 14-22 have been canceled and claim 9 has been amended as requested. Claims 9-13 are pending. In view of Applicant's comments regarding 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and the new grounds for rejection, this action is "non-final."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 9-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Devane et al (6,228,398; hereafter '398) in combination with Grob et al (4,559,332; hereafter '332) and further in combination with Jao et al (5,160,744; hereafter '744) OR Faour et al (6,596,456; hereafter '456) in combination with Grob et al (4,559,332; hereafter '332) and further in combination with Jao et al (5,160,744; hereafter '744.

6. '398 and '456 both teach controlled release anti-hypertension combination formulations that provide both and immediate release and a controlled release of the active agents. Neither reference teaches that the anti-hypertensive agent is an aldosterone antagonist or release of the active agent in accordance with the diurnal cycle of plasma aldosterone concentration.

7. '332 teaches aldosterone antagonists as potassium-saving diuretics for treatment of hypertension but does not teach combination of the aldosterone antagonist with a second formulation having a second anti-hypertensive agent.

Art Unit: 1615

8. '765 teaches administration of delayed release anti-hypertensive agents at bedtime to block the early morning rise of blood pressure.

9. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to provide an anti-hypertensive formulation having two anti-hypertensive agents where the formulation releases one of the agents in accordance with the early morning rise of blood pressure and one of the agents is an aldosterone antagonist with the motivation that substitution of an aldosterone antagonist for one of the anti-hypertensive agents of either '398 or '456 would result in the same effect (i.e. reduction of hypertension) while sparing potassium and avoiding the early morning rise of blood pressure.

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 9-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
